

SPEECH, LANGUAGE, AND HEARING SCIENCES

The Bachelor of Science in Speech, Language, and Hearing Sciences degree is blended with the Mount's broad liberal arts foundation to prepare students for a variety of careers. This major provides the scientific knowledge needed for advanced studies, as well as opportunities for practical experience and well-rounded professional training. Often, this program is a pre-professional degree for those wishing to pursue a career in speech-language pathology or audiology. The Mount also offers a 3+2 program that combines this degree with the Master of Speech-Language Pathology (MSLP) program for qualified students.

BEYOND THE CLASSROOM

HANDS-ON EXPERIENCE

Speech, Language, and Hearing Sciences students engage in Service Learning with community partners such as local schools and hospitals. As part of the undergraduate program, students gain hands-on experience in the fields of speech-language pathology and audiology. Additionally, we uniquely offer the opportunity for Speech, Language, and Hearing Science students to complete a formal cooperative learning experience and gain practical experience.

IN-DEMAND CAREER POTENTIAL

Demand for speech-language pathologists is predicted to grow 29% through 2030 (Bureau of Labor Statistics, 2021), making the employment outlook very strong. Employment for audiologists is expected to grow 16% as the population ages and their hearing is affected (Bureau of Labor Statistics, 2021).
